WEDNESDAY'S KENTUCKY DERBY.

In the sparse Louisville books on to-morrow's Kentucky Derby—the twenty-third to be run—Ben Brown was favorite at the end of last week. He has been heavily backed of late and if the Ornament rumors are true—has a good chance. Fit and well, though, Ornament holds Brown safe. The Kentucky Derby's table history is:

From 1875 to 1895, inclusive, the distance was one mile and a half. In 1896 the distance was reduced to one mile and a quarter.

From 1875 to 1879, inclusive, weights were: Colts, 100 pounds; fillies, 97 pounds; in 1880 colts carried 105 pounds, while fillies and geldings carried 102; 1884 colts carried 110 pounds, fillies and geldings 107; from 1886 to 1890 colts carried 118 pounds, geldings 115 pounds and fillies 113 pounds.

From 1891 to 1893, inclusive, colts and geldings carried 122 pounds and fillies 117.

In 1894 the standard scale of weights was: Colts 122 pounds, fillies and geldings 117 pounds; but this scale did not apply to the Kentucky Derby of 1894 and 1895, the latter stakes having closed when the preceding scale was in operation.

In 1896 the distance was reduced to a mile and a quarter and the conditions otherwise changed as follows: Colts 122 pounds, geldings 119, fillies 117; non-winners of a three-year-old race of $1,500 allowed 5 pounds, maidens 10 pounds.

Wednesday's Derby field will come from the lot displayed below:

RACING GOSSIP.

Prof. Lucien I. Blake of the Kansas University is quoted as declaring that Fitzsimmons was galvanized when he met Corbett. He says athletes can and have been filled with electricity and made invincible. Other more or less scientific authorities should be placed on record about modern methods of "fixing" heads that are awry. Then, too, there are other suggestions from Prof. Blake's revelation. If fighters can be galvanized for winning purposes why not politicians? They are not hard enough. Then, too, there are trusts, "pipes," bottles and a lot of other human utensils and botherations.

There is not much to the all summer racing "news" from San Francisco. The Pacific Coast and California Jockey Clubs recently signed a two year agreement, intended to harmonize their interests. The gist of the agreement made Ingleside stop on May 1. Oakland stops next Saturday. By this agreement the Pacific Coast Jockey Club will have eighty-six days racing and the California Jockey Club eighty-seven days racing during the season of 1896 and 1897. Next winter's racing is to begin at Ingleside November 1, 1897. The two clubs will alternately race two weeks for six months. Each association is allowed to let its track for trotting races but no running races are to be held. It was further agreed that neither club of the association shall own, in the counties of San Mateo, Alameda, Marin or Contra Costa, any race track. Nor will any foreign books be permitted upon either of the association tracks.

Ever since DAILY RACING FORM has been published, Jockey Tuberville's name has been so published. The rest of newspaperdom has spelled the name Turbiville. The editor of DAILY RACING FORM was dealing in facts over the name. Tuberville wrote a card for him at San Francisco in 1894. The corroboration of it all comes about a gold and onyx handled umbrella, sent by the jockey to Ed Tipton, the manager of the Montana tracks. Wednesday night was damp and Tipton carried the umbrella. Upon its gold head is the inscription, made to the order of the boy himself, out of gratitude for the mount on Ogden in the Futurity of 1896—Tipton caused the colt to go east for the race. It reads: "To Ed A. Tipton, from 'Doc' Tuberville."

NOTES OF THE TURF.

The Kentucky announcement from Lexington, declaring that Newport would be branded if it continued its meeting in conflict with Lexington and Louisville, probably misrepresents Kentucky. Certainly Kentucky doesn't control the Turf Congress and the Congress carries the branding iron.

DAILY RACING FORM

COPYRIGHTED.

Entered according to act of congress, in the year 1897, by Frank H. Brunell, in the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C., U. S. A.

Local parties went to queer figures over the turf for a day or so two weeks ago—and rested. It was insolent enough to use DAILY RACING FORM's chart numbers for its past reference. If it ever starts again it must shift its reference system or stop. The protection afforded by the law of copyright suggests this.

The turf is statistical. Its form wins. By "its form" reference is made to the mere figures of racing, correctly reported, as DAILY RACING FORM reports them. Turf statistics, applied to turf results, means all around honesty and truth. There is no avenue upon which to get an idea from the figures of past performance. If it did not believe that the average of honesty among men who race horses wasn't as high as the average of those who operate groceries, newspapers, and sundry other mercantile establishments DAILY RACING FORM wouldn't be published. The news it publishes reflects the same idea. It is correct, genuine and made up from the best sources that can be had. There hasn't been six mistakes in its chart numbers in the past three months. This is the mere result of care and expert work. Personal accounts with 5,000 horses are kept on the office books. Each account is as carefully built as that of a merchant with a customer. DAILY RACING FORM's charts are more complete than any ever published before them, or at present. They are copyrighted. Their numbers are the definite legal keys that make the copyright stamp sharper than usual. The numbers are so arranged that proof of duplication is a simple matter of record.

Following the idea that turf record is needed, thin witted newspaper folks seek to tabulate the past of the turf to apply to the entries of each day. The result is a lot of clumsy blocks of figures which must first be unravelled and then applied to the charts as published by DAILY RACING FORM. The racing public wants results. They get them in DAILY RACING FORM's charts. It does not want puzzles.
